Chairman's Message

The Australian Soccer Federation and the Quit Socceroos are delighted to welcome the New Zealand team to Adelaide for the second leg of the 1991 Southern Cross Trophy Challenge. The series is an important one for both countries, being a popular stage for the friendly sporting rivalry that exists between the two neighbours.

This year, the series is also important as a build-up for both countries for their matches against England in June. In both teams today we will witness some last minute trials of tactics and players in preparation for next month.

Adelaide is proud to host today's match. The city is well-known for the enthusiastic support it lends to soccer teams, both local and visiting. The Quit Socceroos and the New Zealand team are both assured of a warm welcome here today. The ASF gratefully acknowledges the ongoing support of Foundation SA, which is behind Australian soccer as enthusiastically and sincerely as Adelaide's individual soccer fans.

Hindmarsh Stadium, with its superb new $800,000 lighting system, is a fitting venue for this prestigious international competition.

The ASF congratulates New Zealand on one hundred years of soccer in the Land of the Long White Cloud, and wishes both teams the best of sporting luck for today's match.

You and the Quit Socceroos

A message to all supporters from the A.S.F.

The 1991 Southern Cross Trophy Challenge is important to the Quit Socceroos for two reasons. First, the series continues the tradition of high level competition between Australia and New Zealand, two of the region's leading soccer nations. As in any international match, both teams will be trying their best to gain both the actual and the psychological advantage of a defeat over their rivals.

Second, and equally important in the broader picture, the series is one of the first steps in the long road to the 1994 World Cup in the USA.

The current Quit Socceroos have arguably a better chance than any of their predecessors of gaining success in soccer's ultimate competition, the World Cup. But as with any sport, you have to play to prosper; we all know that it is vitally important for the Quit Socceroos to obtain as much top level match experience as possible, both at home and away.

Naturally, staging international matches is an expensive business, which is only made viable by you, the supporters. Coming to enjoy the Quit Socceroos' matches – and bringing along your friends too – helps to ensure that our team receives that vital match experience. And, of course, as the Quit Socceroos go from strength to strength with more and more experience, their games become even more exciting for supporters. So everybody wins.

Following our national team on a regular basis means you can watch and appreciate the changes in line-up and tactics as National Coach Eddie Thomson refines the team for optimum performance. You can judge the effects of these changes for yourself.

The Quit Socceroos' matches against Czechoslovakia in January and February were their first major appearances for 1991 and attracted a good crowd to Sydney's Parramatta Stadium and Melbourne's Olympic Park. We are confident that today's match, in a city renowned for its keen supporters, will bring an even greater attendance.

Then, of course, there's the match against last year's World Cup semi-finalists, England, on June 1st at the Sydney Football Stadium. The ASF expects this event to be a complete sell-out.

Following the match against England, the Quit Socceroos will travel to Seoul, Korea, to pitch their skills against Korea, Egypt, Indonesia, Malta, the USA and the USSR in the President's Cup. Soccer has developed enormously in Asia, and the President's Cup gives us an opportunity to play against teams which combine the best of traditional coaching methods, with a new and exciting approach to the game. Certainly, soccer played by our Asian neighbours has a different 'flavour' to the more familiar European and South American brands of the game.

With our commercial relationship with the Asian region maturing, it is exciting to look forward to our developing the sporting relationship also.

These games, and an evolving program of other international contests, give the Quit Socceroos the exposure and experience they need to show the world that they are serious about gaining a place at USA '94.

While today our attention is focused on the Quit Socceroos – representing the pinnacle of achievement in Australian soccer – we should not forget our national younger teams, the Young Socceroos (Under 20's) and Joeys (Under 17's). Both of these teams have met with marvellous success in recent international matches, and they provide very entertaining football for their growing crowds.

The Under 20's have secured a place in the 1991 FIFA/Coca-Cola World Youth Championships in Portugal in June. The ASF will be hosting this prestigious event in 1993, which we are greatly looking forward to. The Joeys will be competing in the Under 17's World Cup in Italy in August.

The Australian Olympic team commences its campaign to Barcelona 92 with qualifying games in Melbourne next week. We wish them all the best of luck.

At an even younger level, looking at the Socceroos of the 21st Century, the ASF is delighted to be associated with Roo Ball, an innovative new style of soccer designed to maximise fun and participation for young players. Headed up by Craig Johnston, Roo Ball is certain to broaden the enjoyment and support of soccer in Australia.

All in all, it is a very exciting time for soccer in Australia, taking on the high profile it deserves as the World Game. Your ongoing support is more valuable and important to us now than ever before. As the ASF continues to develop the game in Australia, we look forward to welcoming you to many more top level matches.

N.Z. Chairman's Message

May I take this opportunity of sending greetings to the Australian Soccer fraternity in this, the year of the NZFA's Centenary.

When one reflects on the history of the NZFA, one cannot help but identify the close links with Australia and what has become known as the ANZAC tradition.

In 1904 New Zealand received its first visit from an overseas team when New South Wales toured for 9 matches. A return visit was made by New Zealand in 1905 when 11 matches were played.

In 1991, and 87 years on from those first matches, the tradition continues. The style of football may have changed, certainly the match venues and the promotion/presentation have changed, but amongst the teams themselves the desire to succeed will be just as strong.

This year we also see the presentation of the Southern Cross Cup (a trophy presented to the NZFA on its Centenary Year by Vice-President, Michael Starling) and this trophy will become a focal point for future internationals between our two countries.

I thank the Australian Soccer Federation for their continued co-operation and express the hope that tonight's match will be enjoyable for all concerned and that the spirit of Fair Play will be paramount.

Is your number up?

Have your blood pressure checked every year by your doctor or health professional.

It's time to get your blood pressure checked again!

Twelve months down the track, Foundation S.A.'s Blood Pressure Promotion Program is again asking South Australians to make the time to have their blood pressure checked, to know their numbers.

The campaign is aimed at creating public awareness of the need to know your blood pressure, particularly for 30-50 year olds, and to monitor it regularly each year to help avoid the onset of high blood pressure and its consequences.

High blood pressure is a major risk factor for stroke, heart attack and kidney failure, although surprisingly, people with high blood pressure do not usually have any symptoms. This means, of course, that you may have high blood pressure and not know it!

Research has shown that 10-15% of South Australians will develop high blood pressure. This, combined with high blood pressure being a major risk factor associated with a stroke, heart disease and kidney failure, has led to the development of the Blood Pressure Promotion Program.

Even if high blood pressure isn't a problem now, there are lifestyle steps we can take to help keep it normal (many people develop high blood pressure as they get older). Here are 6 important tips for keeping your blood pressure down.

- Keep a normal weight
- Keep daily alcoholic intake to 4 drinks for men and 2 for women (less if you have high blood pressure - your doctor can advise you)
- Don't smoke (this multiplies the risk of suffering from stroke or heart attack if you have high blood pressure)
- Exercise regularly
- Cut down on salt
- Learn to relax and reduce stress

If you have high blood pressure, following these lifestyle tips may help you to lower it, along with medication your doctor prescribes. Problems with medication should always be discussed with your doctor – do not skip tablets or stop taking them.
